

HIFLD Open Data Now Available Directly Within HIFLD Secure

Geospatial
Management Office

What Do I Need to Know?

HIFLD Open Data Will Always Remain Available At:

<https://hifld-geoplatform.opendata.arcgis.com/>

This only adds expanded ease of access to HIFLD Open Layers directly for those users that are already logged into HIFLD Secure. <https://gii.dhs.gov/hifld/data/secure/>

Access to HIFLD Open Layers within HIFLD Secure is through direct web link only. Available within same 'categories' as previously found in HIFLD Open

HIFLD Secure is only accessible using Homeland Security Information Network (HSIN) Username and Password.

As a Reminder - When in HIFLD Secure:

Open, Secure, and Licensed data may be available in this group and are differentiated with iconography.

The following iconography represents the level of restriction for data layers:

Examples:

Emergency Services

HIFLD Open Data: Public data are represented with a blue icon. These data are accessible to all via HIFLD Open and can be downloaded and shared freely.

Emergency Services

HIFLD Secure Data: Represented with a blue icon and a blue lock in the upper right-hand corner. These data sets have been designated U//FOUO and must follow FOUO handling requirements. These data are accessible to users with HSIN credentials. Please refer to the metadata for each layer for additional information on releasability and usability.

Emergency Services

HIFLD Secure and Licensed Data: Represented with a red icon and a red lock in the upper right-hand corner. These data are accessible to approved users with HSIN credentials and cannot be shared in the public domain or with unapproved users. Please reference data use restrictions within the metadata for specifics on releasability and usability.
